Theory Regarding the Disappearance of Miss Pauline Bauer.

ST. LOUIS. Nov. 20.-The relatives of Miss Pauline Bauer, the young woman who mysteriously disappeared from her home a week ago, now believe that she is not dead, but instead that she is confined in some secluded room by an unknown man, who hopes to exact a ransom from them. Miss Mary Bauer, the younger sister of the missing girl, is very strong in this belief, for the reason that on the Thursday before her sister disappeared she and Paul-ine were closely watched by a strange man, who acted in a suspicious manner. The police working in the case concur in the ransom theory. The girl was soon to have

ALSO IMPLICATED IN THE ATTEMPT TO ROB INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Four Men Arrested at New York on Suspicion of Complicity in the Death of F. P. Arbuckle, of Colorado.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 20.—Charles O. Kaiser has been held to answer for the murder of his wife, Emma P. Kaiser, who was shot and instantly killed on a lonely

28. The verdict rendered by the coroner's her death and adds that he was aided by unknown persons in a scheme to defraud insurance companies. Kaiser was committed to prison and Dec. 7 has been fixed for his trial.

When the murder was committed Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser were driving home from Gulf Mills, a village near Bridgeport, where they had been delivering portraits from their store in this city. The first Manrill, a Norristown hotel keeper, who found Kaiser madly circling about the road and shricking "murder." while in the carriage near by lay the corpse of his wife, with a bullet in the head. Kaiser's story was that the murder had been ccmmitted by highwaymen, who robbed them of valuable jewelry and money. Next day, however, the goods were found hidden under stones along the road and suspicion was directed towards the husband. Subsequent developments proved that the woman's life had recently been insured in a number of companies for her husband's benefit to an aggregate sum of $10,500 and that the couple had not lived happily together, A mysterious man and woman, known to have been intimately associated with Kaiser, are implicated. They had meetings with him some days before the murder and were seen in the vicinity of the spot where it occurred at nearly the same time. Detectives are searching for them and the case bids fair to be rich in startling revelations. The team in which Kaiser and his wife rode has been identified as one stolen from ex-Mayor Jackson, of Gloucester, N. J. It was hired Sept. 5 by the mysterious woman and never returned. The evidence adduced at the inquest forms a strong circumstantial chain around Kaiser. It is said that, while denying his own guilt, Kaiser has admitted name he worked in Ohio and Indiana, is in to detectives that he knows the murderer, jail here for forging bank drafts and has but will not reveal his identity.

He at first denied having mittee be named to investigate the state been in Luchow's saloon with Arbuckle, As he was talking to Captain O'Brien a detective walked in with Davidson. Davidson at once recognized Stevens and said and searching one. The people of the State should know the facts and I most respectto him: "Hello; are you here in this case. too?" Stevens, according to Police Captain fully demand that immediate action be O'Brien, seemed nettled when this remark was made to him. When Davidson was searched one of Mr. Arbuckle's cards was found on his person. Davidson admitted having met Arbuckle Wednesday night, and said they had arranged a meeting for today. This was why Mr. Arbuckle had given him his card, he said. After this story was told another detective walked in with the prisoner Menger. All three then admitted having seen Arbuckle in Luchow's saloon on Wednesday night. They denied, however, having gone up town with him. this city are indignant over the language in Menger made the following statement: "1 President Cleveland's Thanksgiving procin company with Joseph Davidson and George Stevens, both of whom came from lamation, exception being taken to the Bentley, Kan., met Arbuckle in Luchow's saloon, on Fourteenth street. Samuel Stewart, alias "Sheeny Sam," the fourth man wanted, was arrested this atternoon by detective Dale. He was pointed cut by Davidson, who was with Dale at the The prisoner was taken to police headquarters. Stewart said he was twentyseven years old, and a salesman. His story of his whereabouts on Wednesday night is as follows: "I was in the Academy saloon with the three men arrested and Arbuckle. After several rounds of drinks we went to Luchow's place, where a game or cards was proposed. Arbuckle refused to play. We left the place and in front of the saloon Davidson and Menger quarreled. I left them then and went to a barber shop on Third avenue, near Sixteenth street. After getting a shave I went home." Stewart was arraigned in the Harlem Court later in the afternoon and was remanded to the care of Captain Kirchner, of the West One-hundred-and-fifty-second-street ion, where the other prisoners were also locked up for the night. Col. Frederick Fiegel, a friend of Ar buckle, said to-night that he thought Mr. Arbuckle got on an elevated train going up town by mistake and had been carried far up town before he was awakened by the guard. Then getting out of the train he was somewhat dazed, not knowing exactly where he was; that he was shortly after attacked by the persons who had robbed him, and that the excitement brought on heart failure. It was learned to-night that Arbuckle was seen last before his death at Forty-second street and Sixth avenue Wednesday night just before 12 o'clock. He was in the saloon attached to the St. Charles Hotel at the northwest corner of Forty-first street and Sixth avenue. There he appeared to be alone, though he treated a number of men who were in the place at the time. He showed a number of bills and gave his card to one of the men. When he left the saloon he was seen talking to a number of cabmen, and finally went up the street Kirchner said to-night that he had nothing sound of the whistle.

Later it was learned that the gold seekers' whale boat was in the possession of a chief on one of the Solomo and that various other property of the prospectors was scattered among the coast villages of the islands. The white men were undoubtedly butchered, and it is surmised that the natives' attack on them was a surprise cleverly planned.

NEW KIND OF SHEEP.

Result of Experiments Conducted by the University of California.

BERKLEY, Cal., Nov. 20 .- The agricultural department of the University of California is raising a new kind of sheep. The superintendent of the experiment station at Paso Robles has succeeded in breeding a variety of sheep that will mean much to the wool and meat markets. It is the result of crossbreeding of Persian and Merino. Experiments along the same lines, though not so complete, were conducted by George Washington with marked success. Two years ago three full-blooded rams were received from the Persian government, and the experiments were commenced in crossbreeding. The offspring resulted in a variety admirably adapted to the California ly relations of Americans and Britons. climate, showing wool and meat above the quality of any yet obtained. They were colored white, reddish brown and black the black being held especially valuable for commercial purposes. One of the most important subjects to be decided by the executive committee was the question of location for the National League headquarters. The Eastern contingency wanted the headquarters located at Washington, where it might work in conjunction with the national central committee. This was vigorously fought, however, by members who wished the headquarters kept at Chicago, which, they claimed was geographically and in other wave a better location than the national capital. Speeches were made in behalf of New York, Washington and Cincinnati, and President Wedomansee's influence was exerted to have the headquarters removed to the national capital, but the efforts for Chicago proved suc-

Mc-Auliffe was the victor, as he had been in all their battles previous to to-night. The last time the men met was in this city, March 21, 1890, when McAuliffe, who was all but put out in the forly-seventh round, rallied under the clever handling of Jack Dempsey and put Carroll out, when the latter was fighting strongly. Although Carroll has passed his fortieth year, he is a well-preserved man and had trained long and faithfully for this, perhaps his last fight. It may be said he has been in training for years to defeat McAuliffe, and he was in prime condition to-night. Betting on the fight was quite brisk, with McAu-The same correspondent has interviewed liffe ruling favorite at odds of ten to nine, Cardinal Satolli in relation to the reports | though considerable money changed hands

Purse of $26,000 on Jan. 14. BOSTON, Nov. 29 .- James J. Corbett, the pugilist, signed an agreement to-night with Warren Lewis, president of the Greater New York Athletic Club, formerly the Coney Island Athletic Club, to spar twenty rounds with "Bob" Fitzsimmons before the club on Jan. 14, for a purse of $26,000, put up by Lewis. Lewis to-day received a reply to his message to Fitzsimmons, in which his the latter asked for a week's time to consider Lewis's offer. A favorable arrangement, however, is ultimately expected, Lewis and Colville both saw Corbett tonight, and both offered him the same amount, but as Colville would not put up a guarantee Corbett accepted Lewis's offer.
